SATURDAY, JULY 30, 1897.

ARE WE TO HAVE A REIGN OF TERROR?

Early last session the Opposition developed as a principle of policy in the slander campaign against the elections that any man who had any business transaction with the Government was necessarily a villain and a scoundrel; that no other evidence of his villainy was required beyond the fact that he had such transaction, and that this being known he therefore became a legitimate target for whatever species of assault the Opposition might seek to fit made upon him.

A typical doctrine of how this doctrine was applied was that if a man was taking his reputation in his hand when he did business with the department the development policy would be blacked and the Opposition purpose to that degree attained.

For what man who values his good name would enter into the most honest and legitimate business transaction with the Government if he knew he was to pay to be accused in the House of Commons of a gross scandal?

Precisely as a man valued his good name would he shrink from having it dragged in the mire, and ultimately only those who had no regard for their reputations would pay the price.

If this is the slanders of private character is to continue, what man in Western Canada is immune from similar results?

The greater portion of the population of this country have business transactions with the Government, either as homesteaders, as ranchers or lumbermen.

If this policy of reviling without leave, license or pretext, the characters of private individuals who engage in any business transaction with the Government is to be supposed to have any purpose at all aside from the creation of scandal, that purpose can only be to terrify the public from doing business with the Government, in any form, of any nature, and under any circumstances.

Are the people of this country to be compelled to sacrifice their rights of citizenship by the associated defenders of the Fostoria "cut"?

After THEM!

An Ontario Government official was driven out of Northern Ontario by mosquitoes. Even the insects have joined the necessitatis and turned against the Government, and are forcing him to abandon the operations of their native land. Their cause is worthy, too, for what chance has an enterprising mosquito in that country when the Government won't build roads through it? Though usually of rural origin the mosquito hates solitude and loves society. He pines for the presence of men, and falling behind he courts with kind and considerate care the woman of the house, his favorite modality in the wilderness.

But a bush country without man or beast, where the Northern Ontario mosquito must either live and die in miserable isolation at home or travel far abroad to feed on the juicy Bostonians summering in Muskoka. This is contrary to all the doctrines of developing home industry and agriculture.

Meanwhile the mosquito was upping his baronet and go after the impudent servants of the despots when they come to spy out the land,

ON THE SIDE.

No single purpose lies nearer the heart of the Opposition than that of retarding, blocking, hampering and obstructing the work of the department of the interior. The western development policy of that department is the hope of Canada and the despair of the Opposition. While it continues Canada will continue prosperous, and while Canada continues prosperous the Opposition have an up-hill job trying to persuade the people to reitate the conditions that existed under the old regime.

Now, as far as the public mind is concerned, the man who had any business transaction with the Government was taking his reputation in his hand when he did business with the department the development policy would be blacked and the Opposition purpose to that degree attained.

AN ARCTIC TRADER'S LIFE

For Eight Years D. Cadzow Has Conducted Most Northerly Post in America—Victoria Times' Interesting Story of This Hardy Trader's Life Among the Indians—Once a Hudson Bay Post.

Victoria, B.C., July 19.—To the ordinary individual the life lived by D. Cadzow, of Rampart house, Yukon Territory, is one of the most trying that can be imagined. He has no wife and few would elect to follow the life which he follows. Mr. Cadzow, on the other hand, enjoys his life and finds it pleasurable in all its phases.

The scene of the operations of this trader is in the north-western part of the American continent. Situated on the Porcupine river, which flows into the Yukon, the post is the only one involved in reaching his headquarters receives many from making the trip. He is the only man in the country, save than the native Indians and the Esquimaux.

This post house was formerly a Hudson's Bay post, the most northerly one located by that great trading company. It was well equipped and all the necessary buildings for the carrying on of trade. As was common in those days, there were no signs of trading posts, a church was also built so that the spiritual needs of the natives could be met, and a missionary work carried on among the natives.

The post was deserted by the Hudson's Bay company, however, years ago. It is nearly twenty years since the Hudson's Bay company left the Rampart house and withdrew their agents from it.

Becomes Eight Years.

Seven or eight years ago Mr. Cadzow saw an opening for trade there, and began in a small way. He has seen much of the country since the time he has now come to regard it as his home. The deserted building was well suited to his purpose, and he has added to these as he found necessary. The Hudson's Bay company left him into a storehouse to meet the needs of his business.

Carrying on a supply of furs gathered during the year, Mr. Cadzow takes a stock of goods for himself and his family, and sends them to him. The transportation facilities are not the best, and he has to depend upon his own strength to promote the means of travel. To Dawson the way is by established routes. At the head of the Porcupine the banded and the run is made down the Yukon to Fort Yukon. The ascent of the Yukon is the most difficult part of the work. For 220 miles the boats are bound against the current. For long distances the water is shallow, the boats by tramping the shore line, as many as twenty miles being required to make the distance.

Mr. Cadzow last winter had the unique experience of acting as host at Rampart house to a party of Indians, who came to a party of visiting Huskies, who for the first time in their lives had ever been in a house. The house is another form of U.S. Army barracks, a branch of the Esquimaux, or Dogue, who have settled along the coast on the west and east mouth of the Mackenzie river, the Great Bear, and the Arctic islands, and overcame their timidity of the Indians, who soon made themselves at home in new surroundings. Afterward the Huskies, accompanied by singing, violent gesticulations, and dancing, left the house. The Huskies, the largest part of the winter, settle. Their dance it is true, is in the form of a stamping motion, merely in violent motions of the arms and legs. When the Huskies depart at the end of the winter, the change of gifts took place between the native Indians and the visitors, both parties giving away their possessions in mutual exchange.

Huskies Well Developed.

From the description which Mr. Cadzow gives of the Huskies, there are a very finely developed race of men. Some of them stand over six feet in height, and are as strong and muscular like the men. In some of the word they are a robust, hardy race, while others are as thin as any speaking race of men. Their heads are large, and their bodies are well developed, to fit in the leading of the missionaries.

Mr. Cadzow attributes this to the fact that the Indians are not used to hard work, and especially to the use of manual labor to which the Esquimaux are accustomed. Withholding their long frigid winter, the Esquimaux never seem to feel the want of a sufficient amount of food. With an income derived by his only and animal labor, Mr. Cadzow is comfortable in ice and snow and wind without necessity for wood or coal.

Mr. Cadzow says they are covered from head to foot in clothing made from the skins of the caribou, deer inside. He was very much struck with the fact that even in the coldest weather the Indians were not climatically immunized when heat and cold were able to lay bare their flesh to the bone. They are as sensitive to temperature somewhere about 30 degrees below zero.

Oread the Indians.

The Esquimaux have long had a dread of the Indians and refuse to come within the territory occupied by the latter. There is, however, one country one of them occupied a party and died from disease. No word was ever heard of him.

"An impression got abroad among the Indians that the Indians had killed him. They were afraid to enter the territory, fearing the same fate, I this year, when they were intent to come to Rampart House to trade."

For years past the Indians have made the greater part of their living with nations full of supplies, and with a history only seen in the annals of the world. Mr. Cadzow, who resides in his house at Rampart House, situated at degree within the Arctic

BLACK SUMMER IN LANCASHIRE

Destruction to Crops in Northern Countries of England, Widespread.

It remains with the result of the crops in the Canadian Northwest to determine if the indications from the northern countries of England as to how fortunate they are in escaping the black year which faces the farmers who remained at home. In Lancashire particularly, the destruction of the crops is extreme. Destructive weather has resulted in the rotting of the grain and potato crop. In fact the moving machines have become almost useless by sinking to the hubs in the sodden fields. A special writer of the Preston Post gives the following review of his investigation of conditions:

There has been a destruction of crops in Lancashire and the northern countries which is probably without precedent.

That will be known as the "Black year."

Though the rain which has been falling has been extremely heavy, and almost continuous for weeks, temperatures have been low, and you may have seen and counted the creases of moisture on the hills.

In all directions on the low-lying land and the plains grass is rotting at the root. In some places the fast-growing rot has eaten up the ten or twelve inches it has been lying in the swamps waiting for the sun, and in others the haymows went out like the sand fields.

Irish Farmers.

During the past few days it has been impossible to get machinery on many lands. One farmer in the Leyland district this morning said:

"We have been trying to move in our country and the machine went in mud, so we had to take it out and use the scythes. The land is saturated and set as pulp. My experience is that there is no one here, and I assure you there is real desolation in many of the places on the flat lands of Lancashire. We are all suffering farmers and market gardeners."

Thousands of Irish laborers are in Lancashire, having arrived during the past fortnight, and they have been working hard, though many with pained faces, to gather the harvest. They have come over from the south, and the small plots and shanties in the far West of Ireland, and so far most of them have earned a cent a day, and called Nifield, to compete with the Jersey. The first consignment of the Irish laborers arrived in Lancashire, the town near the farm on which they are engaged early on Saturday, and have been staying to attend services, and especially to go to the police and remit money to their wives and children with great frugality, and I am glad to say that they are both well-conducted and sober. There are, however, a few young men going to the Fylde not a single one had ever touched a drop of intoxicating drink, and they have been disciple s of Father Mathew.

The orderly and good conduct of the present laborers is a great credit to them, and I am gratified to note, they do more work with greater cheerfulness than the English laborers, who are more listless, dreary and note-selving than former-days.

State Land Ploughed Up.

Today the agricultural lands of Lancashire are water than they have been at any time during the past winter. Some low-lying districts are flooded, the brooks being unable to carry away the great flow from the rain.

On hundreds of acres of potato land water fills the hollows. So great are the roots become in places that whole fields are being ploughed up and it will be necessary to clear up an entire field to make the land to an other form of crop.

At present there are two cart loads of hay in the Preston market. Last year at this time heaps of hay were to be had in Lancashire, and now a new crop is selling in the market.

The price of hay is rising, and Canada has sent a large quantity to the market for hay is fast increasing in the Peninsula, where stock has increased enormously during the past two years.

Investigation on the Covered Market at Preston has made it evident that every prospect of hay getting into the market is gone.

The Peavine Prairie is rapidly from prospective settlers, and so pronounced has been the demand for land that the state department found it to be a good investment to extend their lines in the district, while the timber companies are also having a busy time answering inquiries concerning the quality of the land and the cost of the same.

The centre of the present Peavine Prairie is in a little over 100 miles from Edmonton, and the road runs through Morleyville. The soil is equal to the best in Alberta and a good deal of the land is virgin, and where there is a growth of light brush. The country is well watered, and where in the country than in some of the streams there are two of the surface streams. The country passes through the prairie, and the extension of the Canadian Pacific will pass through the same, and will not be more than a comfortable day's travel from the railway.

The country has proven ideal for a grazing place, and American and Canadian settlers. Although an improved pasture bill has been introduced into the legislature, it is not likely to pass, and the bill will be introduced again next week and will be kept at work for a considerable time.

This was the reason to the district include two Japs who arrived at the end of last month, and were sent from the coast to help out with Guide Hayes along with a party of Frenchmen.

The Peavine Prairie apples, peaches, and pears are excellent, and the fruit is well known throughout the country.

Strawberries are being raised; flower beds are peppered to better prospects of a fruit crop are beginning to lessen.

The potato grower said this morning:

"I expect a big crop of apples. The telephone broke off heaps of leaves, and the trees are waiting for the sun, and in hours the snow will be gone, the haymows went out like the sand fields.

The Potato Market.

So far Lancashire have appeared on the market, and they were from Hailsham, and the market has been opened for a short time.

They are fresh, and have had several years in the United States as the best position. They are not yet up to the English market.

They have been raised and worked on farms in their native land before they are sent to market.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Denner and four children of St. Paul, Minn., departed for the same metric on Friday morning.

They are French Canadian family who have been in Minnesota for a number of years, and have decided to return to their home in the land that gave them birth. They went to Montreal to get tickets, and to go in charge of a French law practice, makes his headquarters at Legal. The settlement of the country has done a great deal for the city, the trade flowing from that direction must come to an end.

CALGARY HIT IN RIGHT SPOT

Beating Edmonton 8-6—Legislatures Rally Too Late—
Lussi Hits Out Homer

Calgary July 19.—Three single acquisitions were made by the Alwegh in the last chapter game, giving the Indians half a dozen goals and clinched the victory for them. Edmonton made a great effort to rally, but was annexed a couple of counters, and the game was won the full nine that it had been in progress. The contest would have ended as the visitors were finding Barnstead free.

The locals put up one of the best fielding games of the year, and the management of the stadium, to know who to let out when the new players arrive from the coast.

The Indians' record stands at the eighth on account of darkness. The feature of the game was Lussi's home run, which was the 10th between left and centre. The score: Edmonton 6; Calgary 8. 5. Batteries: McLean & Ford; Barnard and James. Umpire: Priest.

THE MIGHTY SCHURCH.

Whitbread, Macmillan, Fox, The Stocks With Bass Full.

Lethbridge, July 19.—Schurch did everything to the Mat Hatters, holding them down to three hits, taking seven and a half innings, three wins, winning the home field game. Then he put up the best fielding game seen this season, and the Indians' hand catch made Henry sorry that he had let him go.

Mat Hatters Hat 6—0. 3 3.
Lethbridge 0.0000102—5 8 0.

BRICKS AND BOUQUETS.

Lot in the sixth.

Can't help but win to-night.

Lussi's home run helped some.

The lucky seventh failed to connect.

Bixler will dispense the benders tonight.

Calgary will be here Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Indians did it. He is usually easy on the Calgary field.

Two shut-outs in one week goes hard with the Hat fanatics.

The Indians would have won sure but the contact game nine innings.

Must have been three costly errors that brooked six runs along with three hits.

Jam has his 23 ticket on him and will get his season on the Chinooks next stop-over arrives.

The Legislators will square up counts with the Chinooks on the second day of the week.

Now it's Medicine Hat that is working an off-fielder better than the bat. What a difference in the game.

McClair had his customary bad innings, but on this occasion it was more than usual.

Calgary should make it two wins out of three.

The Whiteheads and one team is somewhat of a record for less than a week's play in a four club league.

With the acquisition of Boylan for left, the Lethbridgers will be able to work Kippert regularly in the box.

Schurch was at his best last night featuring a performance in which he got only three hits, striking out seven and slumping out a striking up seven and a half in somewhat unusual.

STRUCK NATURAL GAS.

The gas company has struck natural gas at a depth of 400 feet. The strike is at the corner of 10th and 11th streets. At present the pressure has slightly increased. The city commissioners have invited the gas company to have a view of preparing themselves for an application which the company may make for a natural gas franchise.

TEACHERS ORGANIZE.

A meeting of the examiners in connection with the provincial examinations for teacher's licenses was held yesterday to consider the advisability of organizing a Provincial Teachers' Association. Mr. Wm. Ross was called to the chair and pointed out many difficulties in the way of forming a Provincial Teachers' Association. Mr. R. S. Jenkins also spoke in favor of organization. After a short discussion, Mr. Parker moved, seconded by Mr. Ross, that a Provincial Association organized in Regina, two years ago be continued under the name of the Provincial Teachers' Association. The motion carried, and the business of clearing up the difficulties was taken up.
